COLLEGE GUIDE

Yes, Christian Colleges Are More Affordable Than You Think

If you're a parent helping your child navigate the college search process, you've probably experienced some sticker shock looking at tuition rates.

I remember going over the numbers for my own family when our two daughters were preparing to graduate high school.

I get it - those numbers can make anyone's heart skip a beat. But here's something that might surprise you: Christian colleges often provide more substantial financial aid packages than you might expect. Even more than public institutions.

Let's bust the biggest myth right now: Christian colleges are out of reach financially. According to recent data from the College Board, about 77% of students at faith-based colleges receive some form of financial aid. That's not just a small discount - we're talking about significant help that can make these schools surprisingly affordable.

"But what about FAFSA? Does it

FAFSA 2025-2026: Key Changes and Deadlines for Student Aid

The U.S. Department of Education has announced important updates for the 2025-2026 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Here's what students and families need to know:

Timeline and Availability

■ The Department of Education has the 2025-26 FAFSA fully available.

■ Final submission deadline is June 30, 2026, at 11:59 p.m.

■ Corrections deadline is Sept. 14, 2026, by 11:59 pm

Key Updates

■ The application maintains the streamlined format with 36 questions instead of the previous 108.

■ The form will cover financial aid for attendance between July 1, 2025, & June 30, 2026.

Important Tips:

■ Have ready: 2023 tax returns (this is the tax year required for the 2025-2026 FAFSA).

■ Create your StudentAid.gov account ahead of time to avoid processing delays.

■ Check with individual schools for their specific deadlines, as they may differ from federal timelines.

■ Apply as early as possible to maximize aid opportunities. The online application through fafsa.gov remains the easiest, fastest, and most accurate way to complete the FAFSA form.

Choosing a Christian College: 4 Top Reasons

It's a big decision to choose between a state college and a Christian college. What do you do? It concerns your future career, your social life, and your happiness for the next few years.

When you choose a Christian college, you make an affirmative decision to develop yourself both professionally and spiritually. Christian colleges provide the same choice of majors and excellent education found at secular universities, but bring something more to the table: fellowship, discipleship, and a sense of purpose. Below you'll find four reasons why students across the United States choose a Christian college.

1. Education at the Highest Level

A Christian college produces more than graduates and qualified job applicants - it sends disciples out into the world. A faith-based school sends its students into the entire range of professional fields, from business to government to non-profit to church life. And then those students represent Christ in those same fields.

As such, a Christian college takes your education seriously. Christian universities know just how high the stakes are in producing Christian leaders, in producing college-educated disciples. When the faculty and administration send you out to represent the faith, they want you equipped, representing the Gospel well through your witness of intellect and excellence.

For this reason, you'll find academic standards at a Christian college as - or even more - rigorous than any secular college.

2. A Christian View in the Modern Classroom

At a Christian college, you'll find a biblical perspective on every subject taught. Professors at Christian universities will bring you the same current, expert instruction found at secular schools, but reinforced and refined with timeless Truth.

To study history at a Christian college is to observe and interpret God's unfolding plan in human affairs. To study information technology is to consider how we might be wise stewards of the power science gives us. To study criminal justice is to ponder God's purpose in establishing civil authorities.

Properly understood, every course can reveal the nature and character of God, and a Christian college will search for the deeper truths in every subject.

3. Fellowship Feeds Your Soul

The friends you make in college will wield a serious influence on your life, and you'll find friends at a Christian college who share your values, your commitments, and your passion for God. Imagine sharing your college years with friends who want to see you grow in your walk with the Lord, who want you to find God's calling. Rather than college being a time of temptation, college could be a time when your social relationships spur you on to greater righteousness.

4. How Firm a Foundation

The world as we understand it through science constantly changes. Research and theory that were taught as fact in one era can give way when new data is discovered in the next.

A good college is obliged to teach its students the latest in science and scholarly advances, but a Christian college will place the truths of science in the greater context of God's timeless Truth. While keeping pace with the most current thinking on any subject, a Christian college will never be moved from the unchanging truth of providence by an intellectual fad.

At a Christian college, you will learn the facts in light of the Truth.

There's no time in your life like college. You'll never work harder - and you'll never have more fun. And when you pursue a Christian education, you can find a closer relationship with God while you find yourself.

Heartland Christian College

WHY BIBLE COLLEGE?

If students are to be salt and light to their world, they'll need a solid foundation. Heartland desires to prepare students in three distinct areas: discipleship, biblical higher education, and service-oriented living.

Discipleship is central to the life of a follower of Jesus Christ. At HCC, classroom teaching, chapels, church attendance, and individual relationships provide opportunities for students to understand and embrace a life of discipleship.

Engaging in biblical higher education will provide tools and inspiration for life-long learning.

The Word of God is Truth, and knowing the Truth and applying it to life provides the foundation that HCC students need to be prepared for each new step in life.

Just as Jesus was a servant, HCC strives to develop the heart of a servant in each student. This is accomplished through biblical studies as well as practical applications in the local community. Students are encouraged to lay down their lives for others during their time in the college and in their future endeavors.

Located in rural northeast Missouri, Heartland Christian College is fully accredited through ABHE and offers a two-year Associate Degree.

Low student/teacher ratios, affordable tuition, and a supportive community make HCC worth a second look!

even work for Christian colleges?" Absolutely! This is another common misconception that needs addressing. Christian universities participate in federal financial aid programs just like any other accredited institution. The financial aid at these schools includes federal aid, institutional scholarships, and grants available to those who complete the FAFSA. In fact, skipping the FAFSA is one of the biggest mistakes families make - students missed out on at least $4 billion in unclaimed federal grants for the 2023-24 academic year.

Here's what you'll find at Christian colleges

Merit-Based Scholarships: Many Christian colleges offer substantial academic scholarships for incoming freshmen. For example, some institutions provide merit awards ranging from $12,000 per academic year, with opportunities for even more based on academic achievement.

Faith-Based Awards: These colleges often offer unique scholarships for students involved in ministry, missionary work, or church leadership. These aren't typically available at secular institutions.

Need-Based Aid: Don't assume you make too much money to qualify. Many private colleges are committed to making education accessible through various financial aid policies, and some even offer full-tuition scholarships based on both merit and need. The numbers tell an interesting story. While private college tuition has increased over the past three decades just like tuition at state schools, Christian colleges have worked hard to offset these costs through generous aid packages. Many families end up paying significantly less than the sticker price.

Here's my advice

Don't rule out a great college based on the published tuition rate alone. Complete the FAFSA early (it's available October 1st for the following academic year), and reach out to the financial aid offices at your chosen schools. They often have additional institutional aid that isn't advertised, and they're usually more than happy to walk you through all your options.

Don't be afraid to ask for more. Both our daughters got more aid at the end of the process because I sat down with the financial aid department and said, "This is what we need to make it work."

Remember, investing in your child's education at a Christian college isn't just about the academics - it's about fostering growth in faith and character while preparing for a career or ministry. And with the right financial strategy, it might be more within reach than you thought.
