5 Key Benefits of Christian K-12 Education: A Parent's Guide

Choosing the right school for your child is one of the most important decisions you'll make as a parent. If you're considering a Christian K-12 education, here's what research and parents say about its benefits.

Superior Academic Achievement

The numbers speak for themselves. According to the Council for American Private Education, 62% of private school students score at or above the proficient level in core subjects, compared to 41% of public school students. Christian schools consistently outperform other private and public schools by as much as 20 percentage points on standardized tests.

Individualized Attention and Support

Christian schools typically maintain smaller class sizes, allowing for more personalized instruction. As one parent from Grace Classical Academy shares, "Our family is grateful to watch our children benefit from a great education; they learn more than I would have imagined possible."

Strong Value-Based Foundation

Christian education goes beyond academics to instill moral values and character development. A parent at Valley Christian School notes, "Beyond academic excellence, the school instills strong moral values rooted in Christian principles. My children are not only excelling academically but are also developing strong character."

Seamless Academic Transitions

The rigorous academic preparation in Christian schools often leads to success in higher education. Recent research from the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI) documents how Christian schools "consistently maintained levels of academic excellence" even through challenging times.

Supportive Community Environment

Christian schools often create a tight-knit community that supports both students and families. A parent at First Baptist Christian School shares, "My three kids feel at home here while getting a top-notch education that is focused on the spiritual as well as the academic. As parents, we are blessed to have found this community."

The choice of a Christian education isn't just about academics – it's about developing the whole child. With demonstrated academic excellence, character development, and a supportive community, Christian K-12 schools offer a comprehensive educational experience that prepares students for success in college and life beyond.

Remember, every child is unique, and what works best for one family may not work for another. Take time to visit schools, talk to parents and educators, and consider your family's specific needs and values when making this important decision.

Top Questions Parents Ask

Since the majority of a child's day is spent at school, it's important to consider the influence that institution has on his or her life. With that being said, the school environment has a great impact on how a child develops.

The truth is, a Christian education can make a great difference in your child's life.

What is a Christian education?

Christian schools provide an environment where a child can grow "...in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and men" (Luke 2:52). Through a Christian education at the schools in the following pages, students will not only learn about the world around them, but will also cultivate a deep and lasting relationship with God.

The goal of any school is to educate children about life, the world, and their purpose in it. Christian education seeks to teach children about the world God created, how our faith is woven into each area of learning, and how to find purpose and meaning through God's Will for our life. Only through an understanding of God, His Word, and His works, can we know truth and show His love to those around us.

A Christian education isn't just having a Bible or religion class in addition to normal classes, but an integration of a biblical worldview into every area of study. In a science class, students may learn about how God's handiwork is seen in the natural laws and design of the world; in physical education, they may learn about setting a Christ-like example both on and off the field. Through these experiences, students learn that following God isn't limited to one area of life.

Consider this example: for most families, church is once a week. As a result, we can unknowingly infer that we only learn about God once a week. With a Christian education, children learn that God doesn't only exist on Sunday, but is constantly at work in the world each and every day.

A Christian school seeks to build on what's taught at church and in the home. Building a faith that exists outside of the church and home is essential to establishing a deep and mature spiritual foundation later on in life. We strive to kindle a desire in students to learn about God and the Bible, preparing them to follow Christ after they leave school.

What if we can't afford a Christian education?

The fact of the matter is that private schooling isn't cheap. It makes more sense, from a strictly financial point of view, to consider public education instead, seeing as we already pay school taxes. Many families appreciate what a Christian school has to offer, but hesitate to apply due to the financial commitment.

It is possible for your child to attend a Christian school. It may mean unexpected income, such as a bonus or a raise at work, or it could mean learning to cut back on certain expenses. A scholarship or financial support could be available through your church or state. Many schools provide financial aid. The opportunities for provision are there. Our God owns the cattle on a thousand hills (Psalm 50), and he owns the hills, too.

Choosing a school is a big decision any way you look at it. The right school will encourage your child to succeed and enrich his/her understanding of God. We know "...that in all things God works for the good of those who love him, who have been called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28). Ultimately, the hope and prayer is that God guides your family to make the decision that will best help your child grow in his or her faith and knowledge of Christ.

Can't Christians go to public schools and turn out fine?

Indeed, they can. Just because a school is public doesn't mean it can't provide a good education and teachers who care about their students. However, keep in mind that the goal of the public school is to educate according to the world's standards and beliefs. As stated earlier, Christian schools integrate Christian morals and principles into each class. The whole atmosphere of a Christian school is one that both promotes and points students to the love of Christ. What's more, every teacher will seek to help your child grow, both academically and in their walk with Christ.

Christian schools hold students to both a higher level of academic achievement as well as accountability in their walk with God. They are challenged to achieve their fullest potential in school, and aren't just seen as a number. From a spiritual standpoint, they are encouraged to grow in their faith and ask the questions that help them understand why they believe what they believe.

The Barna group, a faith-based research company, recently found that many church leaders in both Protestant and Catholic churches see public schools as a negative influence on a child's faith. Ultimately they concluded,

"Clergy view parents, churches, and Christian communities, as positive influences on a child's spiritual formation and development. However, children are spending most of their daytime weekday hours each at school, which is perceived by many church leaders as a negative influence on a child's spiritual formation. In fact, schools are ranked alongside a child's friends and peers as primarily negative influences—a view held by 61 percent of Protestant leaders and 65 percent of Catholic leaders. In some cases, the perceived negative influence of a child's school or friend group outweighs a perceived positive influence by double."

"While it is great that some churches have partnered with or served at local public schools for the purposes of outreach, the decision of where a Christian parent should send their child to school should take into account the whole-person formation of the child," Brooke Hempell, Barna's senior vice president of research, says. "And if public schools are perceived to have a negative influence on the spiritual formation of a child, parents need guidance on how to navigate this decision."

Shouldn't we as Christians be "salt and light" in the public schools?

A Christian school shouldn't seek to shelter its students from the world, but rather to teach them how to transform it. Just as churches equip Christians to learn about God and show His love to others, a Christian school allows for a more hands-on approach to this purpose. A Christian education trains students to understand the truth in the Bible and then share their faith confidently with others. Learning how to defend their faith and effectively share the Gospel is what will allow people to change the world through Christ.

We're all human, and regardless of our background or upbringing we all need to experience the love of Christ. Children in a Christian school are no different. They can experience the same issues and have the same questions as those in a public school can. The difference is that in a Christian school, the focus of education is to draw students into a deeper and fuller understanding of God and the world He created.

Again, we understand that choosing a school for your children is a big decision and pray that God guides you to the best choice for your family.

If you have any additional questions or concerns, you can always reach out to the Admissions office at any of the schools in the following pages and additional schools listed in the poster on the back page.

Kalos Christian Academy

In a world that often values achievement over character, Kalos Christian Academy is a beacon of academic excellence and spiritual formation.

Education at Kalos Christian Academy is not merely about filling young minds with facts—it is about shaping hearts, cultivating wisdom, and nurturing a lifelong love for learning. Every child is recognized as a unique image bearer, with a mind to be challenged and a soul to be nourished.

With a commitment to classical Christian education enriched by Charlotte Mason’s time-honored principles, Kalos Christian Academy provides an atmosphere where students flourish. The curriculum, rooted in biblical truth, reveals God’s presence in every subject—whether in the order of mathematics, the beauty of literature, or the wonder of science. Faith and learning are not separated; instead, students are invited to see all knowledge as part of God’s grand design.

Charlotte Mason once wrote, “Where shall we find our material?—for we can only think as we are supplied with the material for thought. First and last, in the Bible; for the knowledge of God comes by revelation. We can only know Him as he declares and manifests Himself to us.”

In alignment with this philosophy, Kalos Christian Academy’s thoughtfully designed curriculum nurtures curiosity, wisdom, and godly character from kindergarten through high school. At each stage of development, students are challenged to grow academically and spiritually.

Small class sizes ensure that each child is known and guided with care, fostering a love for knowledge.

By providing a rich feast of knowledge through primary sources, living books, and exploration of God’s Creation, students are equipped with the intellectual tools to discern truth in a culture of shifting values.

However, education extends beyond academics.

Through daily devotions, worship, and rich discussions, students grow in faith, learning to love the Lord with heart, soul, mind, and strength. Kalos Christian Academy partners with Christian families, recognizing that the best education is woven into the fabric of home, church, and school. Parent involvement is a valued aspect of the community, strengthening the bonds of discipleship that shape children into strong, virtuous leaders.

Families seeking a school where faith and knowledge go hand in hand, where children are encouraged to think deeply and love fully,

are invited to discover Kalos Christian Academy.

Together, the school and families prepare students for a life of purpose, service, and devotion to God’s truth, beauty, and goodness.

Heartland Christian School

Education is essential for the young people and has many components that make it successful. The first component is the home. God's Word gives parents the guidance needed for successfully completing this daunting responsibility. Parents are accountable to God to do everything possible to guide their children to accept Christ as their Savior, to develop a Biblical belief system to guide them in their life decisions, and to surrender to God's will for their lives.

The second necessary component is the church. The New Testament church is ordained of God for the proclamation of the gospel and the building up of the saints. For a child, regular attendance in church is essential to Christian growth and the support of what is being taught at home and, hopefully, at their school.

The final component is the school itself, specifically one providing a Christian education. Neither public nor private, nor even Christian schools, are mentioned in Scripture. Therefore, our calling and purpose, given today's societal structure, is to assist parents in their assignment of educating their child, with the ultimate goal being successful in life - in God's eyes. The school can fulfill its calling in Kingdom Education by hiring loving and qualified Christian educators, teaching academics from a Biblical perspective, having students take daily Bible classes, having weekly chapel services, and providing a Christ-centered environment where students can thrive in their faith. All of that is done with academic excellence from an accredited school. Everything the school does should be done with Kingdom Education in mind. That is the goal of Heartland Christian School - to come alongside parents in raising and instructing the next generation for Christ by providing an accessible, available, and affordable education to anyone who is led by the Lord to be a part of Christian Education. It only takes one generation to change a nation.

Teleios Academy

In 2024, a team of experienced Christian school teachers saw the gap for an accessible and affordable Jesus-centered education option in the south Kansas City/Belton area. No school in the area filled the needs of working families with no capacity for parent homeschool support, and who also provided a more affordable tuition rate than most area schools.

This team launched Telios Academy in the fall 2024, following a hybrid school model, integrating similar logistics of homeschool co-operatives and full academic programming of a private school.

A student at Teleios learns from a qualified faculty in three full days per week of academic-focused instruction and one (optional) full day per week of enrichment-based instruction including STEM, physical education, music, art, chapel, and more. Education is personalized and student/teacher relationships are strong, fostered by class sizes not to exceed 15:1.

Teleios students are knit together with fellow students in cross-age learning groups and projects, spiritual discussions, enrichment activities, and service. Students are thrilled to arrive at school every day and sad to leave in the afternoons. School is a joy!

At Overland Christian Schools, our mission is to provide a strong educational foundation from a biblical perspective and to prepare young people for service as they pursue God's will for their lives.

It is our desire to educate the whole child: academically, emotionally, physically, and most importantly, spiritually.

We strive to create a vibrant, Christ-centered community where students develop a biblical worldview, grow in relationship with Jesus, and step boldly into His purpose and will for their lives.

If you are interested in joining the OCS community, we would love to hear from you so we can set up a campus visit.
