COLLEGE GUIDE

11 reasons why students should consider a Christian college

Faculty

Research and antidotal stories continue to prove that faculty are amongst the top influencers in the university experience for college students. No matter if you're attending a rural liberal arts college, a suburban community college or even an urban university--- professors wield tremendous influence in the minds of undergraduates. They are intellectually gifted individuals who hold advanced academic degrees, have a protected platform for expressing their viewpoints, and hold the weight of evaluating students' academic progress. All this means that students tend to hold them in high regard and are influenced greatly by them. Faculty who are believers in Christ bring to the university a biblical framework through which they live, teach, research, publish and serve the community. Gratefully, there are Christian faculty at most colleges and universities in the country. However, it's a powerful thing at a Christian university to have ALL believers in Christ fulfilling their calling in a context of faith-based higher education. The Christian colleges assure that a consistent faith understanding is nourished in the hearts and minds of college students. Over the course of four years that has considerable influence in their development.

Curriculum

The courses you take in college aren't random ideas thrown together without considerable thought and planning. There is a logic undergirding the majors offered and the classes selected by faculty to be offered to students. At a Christian institution your courses are rigorous from a content aspect but also in that you're challenged to consider biblical principles that bring into play ethics and morality--- all the while contextualizing them and comparing them with other philosophical viewpoints. That brings into a student's experience a challenge that causes most to unpack their faith--- and in the context of a supportive community, re-pack their faith. Research shows that faith changes considerably during the college years in a positive direction at Christian universities while at other types of colleges and universities it suffers. In fact, the majority of Christian students at non-Christian universities will step away from their faith during those years. Given all the choices and decisions students have during those four years that are long-lasting--- it is important to be in the right environment. For most Christian students the best place for them is a Christian university--- in large part because of the curriculum.

Finances

It's a well known fact that higher education is pricey, especially at private colleges and for those from out of state studying at public universities.

Christian colleges are committed to their mission to a degree that they do significant fundraising to help provide financial aid to help students meet the cost. The scholarships and grants coupled with federal and state aid help bring the out-of-pocket cost to manageable levels for many families. Look beyond the published price and realize that's not what most students end up paying to the university. The investment is still significant, but so are the results in the type of student that graduates from a Christian university.

A Culture of Care

While not all Christian colleges are the same--- they do have a common goal of having a culture of care for students that provides a support environment in which to learn and grow. That doesn't mean your mom is standing over you watching your every move. It's living in a community that supports you and upholds you in the tough times and celebrates your good times. Not all college types are able to fulfill that as well as Christian universities. Other colleges don't share a faith distinctive that fortifies students' experiences. Media provides examples of negative behaviors and outcomes that cause great heartache and in some cases, change the course of life.

After Hours

Some say that college comes to life after midnight! There's no doubt that's true. Christian colleges and universities offer many activities, clubs, sports, music groups and outreach, just to name a few. However, besides those traditional extracurricular activities, there's spontaneous fun that happens in residence halls at Christian universities that helps students to blow off steam. Runs to the coffee shop, game-playing, filming/editing videos, and watching old movies are just the beginning of what students do besides study for their upcoming classes. These are what make for some great memories during college.

Iron Sharpens Iron

We are shaped and molded in part by the company we keep. In Proverbs 27:17 it says, "As iron sharpens iron, so one man sharpens another." That's certainly true during the college years. The Christian college experience provides encouragement, as well as challenges that over time helps student mature in Christ. In the rough and stormy seas of life it's an incredible privilege to be in an atmosphere that places students with some remarkable role models in faculty and staff, who will forge greater

Central Methodist University

See ad on back page.

Central Methodist University is an Apple Distinguished School that has provided high-quality education to Missouri and beyond since 1854. The university welcomes students of all backgrounds of faith, and has plenty of on-campus options for those who wish to express or celebrate their beliefs.

Central's historic main campus in Fayette, Mo., a short half-hour drive from Columbia, is known for its exceptional programs in fine and performing arts, health professions, science, and teacher education. The university also offers a growing number of online classes and programs, and several master's degree options.

Linn Memorial Church, near the heart of CMU's main campus, is frequently visited by students, faculty, and staff for a variety of events. Led by students, Chapel is held there every Tuesday and is open to all. It is a celebration of faith with uplifting messages and live music by CMU's Worship Band, made up entirely of students, that often draws large crowds.

For students of the Methodist faith, CMU offers an extraordinary scholarship opportunity – a 50 percent tuition discount for all four years, the United Methodist Half-Tuition Scholarship. To qualify, students must be an active United Methodist Church member, have a 2.5 cumulative GPA to be eligible, and maintain a 2.0 while a CMU student.

Central has a wide variety of undergraduate programs of study, including a Religion and Church Leadership major. This major prepares students for a variety of leadership roles in the church. Between biblical studies, a variety of electives in religion, and classes from other disciplines, students receive a well-rounded experience that prepares them for success.

Ensuring students have the highest level of technology at their fingertips, Central's "Digital U" gives each undergraduate student at CMU's main campus their own personal Apple iPad, loaded with apps and other features to enhance the academic experience and build connections. Besides allowing instant access to fellow students, clubs, athletics, fine arts, and campus activities, Digital U provides faster, smarter, and more collaborative learning, the option of using printed textbooks or e-textbooks, and real-world experience with the technology top employers use today. One example of the "technology at students' fingertips" is an Anatomage Table – one of the most advanced pieces of visualization technology in medical science.

Central continues to evolve and enhance its way of teaching to stay ahead of professional expectations students will face after graduation, focusing day in and day out on the successes of both current and future students.

Bethel College

Founded in 1887, Bethel College is the oldest Mennonite college in North America – rooted in Christian theology, sustained by Anabaptist distinctives, and guided by Mennonite values that include peace and justice for all people, global citizenship, service to others, and conflict transformation.

In line with those values, Bethel was named a Truth, Racial Healing and Transformation Campus Center in 2021. In line with those values, Bethel works to prepare students for meaningful lives of work and service through faith formation, the liberal arts, and practical experience in career pathways.

Bethel is known for being a close-knit campus community, where most students live on campus, where all students join in twice-a-week convocations for learning and dialogue, where almost every student is involved in one or more extracurricular activities, whether that's athletics, music, theater, student government, social justice action, or a combination. Faculty are committed to ensuring student success, often becoming a friend and mentor for life.

Bethel is affordable – 100% of students receive financial aid, often a combination of loans and grants based on student talents and interests. For example, there's a scholarship available for doing service on campus or in the community.

Graceland University

When it was founded in 1895, Graceland University carved into its cornerstone “non-sectarian” – a signal that despite being founded by Community of Christ (then the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints), the university welcomed all individuals, regardless of faith background or beliefs.

For over 125 years, Graceland has stayed true to the values of its founding denomination, welcoming all who want to “seek learning even by study, and also by faith.”

These values are lived out at the university’s main, residential campus in Lamoni, Iowa, about an hour south of Des Moines, which spans 170 beautiful acres in the rolling hills.

Graceland’s unique “house system” provides the backbone of the student life experience.

While similar to a traditional Greek system, Graceland’s social structure is built on belonging – all who attend are assigned a “house,” providing a supportive community from the moment you walk on campus.

Students are challenged to think critically through a rigorous and exciting liberal arts general education, which draws from all disciplines and encourages dialogue and collaboration.

Graceland offers more than 35 majors and graduate programs to its students, with graduate programs being delivered online or at Graceland’s Independence, Missouri, campus in the Kansas City metropolitan area.

Scholar's---the work of God has primacy in these schools. And don't be quick to dismiss this key distinctive because other types of colleges don't pretend to get it. Sure, there are some Christians within those public schools that are followers of Christ and are shining His light in their universities, but that faith influence is not pervasive. A campus united because of Christ holds significant value, both in the present and the future. Through the efforts of students and alumni--- they are impacting the world for Christ. Their training coupled with their passion and calling is a powerful force for God's work to be accomplished.

Safety

All college and university campuses are committed to safety and Christian institutions are no exception. They exist because of students and are dedicated to them being able to enjoy college without concern for their well-being. However, blogs on the web consistently prove out that there are dangers at college, especially those that are not Christian. Many of those dangers result from alcohol-related usage during the college years and Christian students are not immune from the influence. Just check with the universities you're considering and see how overt the issues are by viewing their crime statistics. In addition to Christian students being challenged in their morals---- there's also intellectual danger. Some professors at non-Christian schools seek to question and destroy the faith of young people. While not every professor has that agenda, it is a factor to consider. And it's not like if you go to a Christian college you're not going to be challenged. You will be pushed to defend your positions, but in a manner to build up your faith - not tear it apart.

Innovation

Creativity and ingenuity mark the Christian campuses around the country. On all levels, the campus community is energized by making the college experience as insightful, stimulating, and relevant as possible. The world in which we live is constantly changing and Christian students are well-prepared to embrace the opportunities awaiting them upon graduation. Both the "head" and the "heart" are exercised at the Christian colleges and universities.

Outreach Focus

There are many opportunities to engage in ministry while a student at a Christian college or university. Outreach through tutoring in local schools, counseling in local clinics, teaching Bible in after school programs, and ministering to the homeless are just a few opportunities. Additionally, students are encouraged to go on mission's trips on Spring break and summer vacation.

Convenient Times • Meet the Teachers! • Ask Your Questions

PRIMARY & SECONDARY

Why choose a Christian education for your children

WHY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION?

To answer this question we must begin with an examination of what Christian education is – or more precisely what it is not.

Christian education is not merely a safe escape from the world. The purpose of Christian education is not to hide our children from the world, it is to prepare them for it. In the words of Professor James K.A. Smith of Calvin College:

“...Christian schools are called to be like Aslan in the Chronicles of Narnia: not safe, but good. Instead of antiseptic moral bubbles, Christian schools are moral incubators that help students not only to see the glories of God’s creation but also to discern and understand the brokenness of this fallen world.”

Our classrooms are to be places of discovery where understanding the complexities of God’s creation is pursued. Places where the brokenness of the world is not ignored but engaged. Racism, slavery, poverty, persecution, beauty, creativity – these things and more are wrestled with and understood. Not from a foundation of secular humanism, which places man’s fulfillment at its apex, but from a foundation of Truth found in Christ Jesus and supported by His Word, which places His glorification at the apex.

Scripture tells us that we are to be salt and light in the world. It also warns us that if we lose our saltiness, the vibrancy of faith that draws others to us, our value is diminished. What value is there then in sending a child, who has yet to acquire their saltiness, into the world to take on a task for which they are not yet equipped?

There is no value in that – worse yet, it might even be destructive to the child. This is the position of many both inside and outside of the church.

If, as they say, education is about “preparing young people for life,” then Christian education is about preparing young people to live out a Christian life. It is about making them salty. Preparing them for a battle that requires maturity and is not waged against flesh and blood but against powers and principalities.

We would never think of sending a youthful warrior off to war without first training and equipping him. My nephew recently returned from Afghanistan. He left just barely older than 19 but returned much older. It was an experience that was both horrific and strengthening for him. He found a metal inside of him that he did not realize was there...a resolve not before seen in him. But he didn’t go into that challenge unprepared.

Months of training, long days of drills, more training, schooling, and bonding with those he served – all of this occurred before he entered the fray. Shortly before he left he stayed at my home (I think more for the food than the company). I asked him about going to war and if he was afraid. His answer did not expose any fear, which I am certain was there somewhere; what he shared was his confidence in his training and his platoon. He even boldly stated “I am the best they have in my company.” He saw death and he felt loss but he returned. He returned because he left prepared.

Christian education is not public education with the Bible overlaid upon it.

The battle our children will enter in this world is, thankfully, very different from the one my nephew fought. But it is a battle for which they must be prepared. A preparation that happens within the classrooms of Christian school.

It is not a preparation Christian schools think they can, or even desire, to do alone. It is a preparation that must be accomplished in partnership with both your home and your church. Each supporting the other to achieve a common goal. Three critical entities in a child’s life, each working together for the advancement of the Kingdom – not in competition but in cooperation.

Each must do their part, uniquely and in balance, or the process will fall apart. It is a partnership of co-laborers – each with a different gifting within the Body for the growing of children to the glory of Jesus.

Christian education is not public education with Bible overlaid upon it. It is equipping students to think Christianly – to be Christian scholars. To give them a lens through which they can see the brokenness of the world. It is through this lens that every subject is taught. It is this teaching that will enable students to engage the world with confidence having been armed with the discernment needed to make choices rooted in Christian values.

Our world is more connected and therefore more complex than ever before. The arguments used by the world, while old in content, are new and more difficult to defeat in their construction. “Sunday school” answers and understandings are no longer enough.

We must sharpen our students’ minds with more than knowledge; we must help them possess the mind of a Christian scholar – a mind so sharp and bright that it can no longer be ignored or marginalized in the discourse of ideas. A student so empowered will be able to hold true to their faith as they walk the halls of higher education, which are steeped in humanism, and walk out respected, influential and victorious.

This is why we must integrate faith and learning so that our students will integrate faith and living.

In the book Outliers, Malcolm Gladwell, presents the idea that 10,000 hours of practice within a field brings about mastery. While there is some debate about Gladwell’s golden rule of mastery, none have argued against the impact that that extraordinary number of hours would have on one’s development within the chosen field.

Imagine spending eight hours a day for almost three and a half years being mentored by one of the world’s greatest chefs or pianists or athletes. What kind of an impact would that have on one’s skill in that area? That concentrated amount of interaction with anyone would most certainly begin to shape more than just one’s ability. The reality is that not only would one’s skill increase but one’s worldview would be altered. That is the impact that education has upon your child.

The average child spends between 15,000 to 20,000 hours in school during their journey from kindergarten to senior year. Those numbers don’t include time outside of class doing work, team practice or rehearsals. Add those times in and the numbers soar.

Those hours of impact will be given to someone. Someone who is intent on training and shaping your child.

This is why Christian education is so critical. Having a child attend a Christian school means raising them up to be Christian scholars who follow Christ with their whole heart. It means equipping them with the tools needed to evaluate their world through the lens of Christian values.

It means building upon, not challenging or tearing down, the values and beliefs you hold in your own Christ-centered homes.

WHY CHRISTIAN EDUCATION?

Because 15,000 hours of influence over your children will be given to someone. Shouldn’t that someone be preparing your children to serve the same Lord as you and your home?

The answer is clearly “Yes, Lord, yes!”

You have been given stewardship over one of God’s most precious possessions – your children. Christian education is a part of being a good steward with that treasure.

May each of us as parents, as we stand accountable for that which we have been entrusted, hear those precious words:

“Well done good and faithful servant.”

Providence School of Arts

What would it look like to seek renewal and transformation in our city within the context of an elementary school? What would it look like to empower a diverse group of learners to become successful contributors in their communities for the glory of God?

That's what Providence School of Arts exists to find out. We provide a quality, holistic education to students from all backgrounds and socioeconomic levels. We want every student to find their value and discover their purpose. We want to SEE THEM FLORUISH!

We weave faith and a gospel-centered worldview into every subject. Our academic curriculum utilizes a multi-sensory approach that targets all learning styles. Our teachers work with each child to craft individualized learning pathways based on background, learning style, and grade-level expectations to ensure each child's success.

Students receive Fine and Performing Arts instruction in dance, visual art, theater, and music. The arts help children develop confidence and necessary learning skills such as critical thinking, creativity, collaboration, and focus. Students also learn pragmatic life and leadership skills to prepare them to be effective and confident leaders.

Providence utilizes a unique income-based tuition model so that families who may not otherwise have access to a private education can afford it.

In the day and age in which we live, children are under attack more than ever before. It is our conviction at Heartland Christian School that we need to be the place that prepares the students to face the attacks that the enemy is throwing at them and their families.

We do this by offering chapel once a week and daily Bible classes to share the gospel. We have a dedicated, loving staff that will partner with you and your family.

At Heartland, we want the students to know Christ and grow in Him, but we prepare them with high academics to be what God has called them to be. Our goal is to offer classes and activities or sports that would rival any school but from a Christ-centered perspective. We are a growing school that will strive to meet your child's needs academically and socially. We are willing to work with any family to partner together even if finances are an issue. Christ Prep Football Christ Prep Football seeks to build godly men for the next generation. We accomplish this by teaching core values such as confidence, courage, humility, and self-discipline. We use the disciplines that football offers as the teaching device.

Christ Prep Football has been serving the Greater Kansas City homeschooling community since 2003. We are blessed to be one of the premier home school football programs in the country.

While we have a long tradition of winning including several national championships, and have had many winning seasons (15 of 18), our greatest accomplishments are visible when our players move on to become godly husbands, fathers, missionaries, military men, businessmen and faithful members of the local church. Seeing young men develop into faithful Christ followers and serve Him faithfully is what this program is all about.

Our team is made up of students who attend Christ Prep Academy, homeschool students and private school students attending schools that do not offer football. Playing for Christ Prep allows players to stay in their current academic environment while playing competitive 11-man football. We have an "approved" status with KSHAA (Kansas High School Athletics Association) which allows us to play public and private schools.

II Timothy 1:7, is our team verse. You cannot succeed in life or honor God being ruled by fear. Football is one of the best ways for young men to learn to overcome fear, to love sacrificially and develop self-discipline. Focusing on their spiritual lives, we have devotions after each practice, encourage prayer and fellowship, and promote a Biblical approach to all areas of life.

Life Success
Our vision is to grow GREAT citizens, empowering them through the Holy Spirit to live successfully in their personal and spiritual lives.

Outreach Christian Education

At Outreach Christian Education, our desire is to embody the love of Christ and equip our students to defend their faith in a tumultuous world.

Students are being lambasted on every side by a cultural worldview that is contrary to God's Word.

Our hope is to reach this generation to build the Kingdom of God by empowering them academically, spiritually, physically, and mentally.

We understand that society may change, but the principles inherent in the Word of God never change. 1 Peter states that "grass withers and the flowers fall, but the word of the Lord endures forever."

At OCE, we believe in a strong triune partnership: God at the head, the family, and the school.

We refuse to compromise on the truth of God's Word, and we desire to prepare the next generation for all that they will endure. We are in a battle for the lives, souls, and futures of these students, and our call is to give them the very best preparation possible so they may achieve and accomplish all that God has for them.

Maur Hill - Mount Academy

Live the Faith, Pursue the Truth, Strive for Excellence. If any part of our motto speaks to you and what you would like for your child, then let me introduce you to Maur Hill - Mount Academy. As a parent you must make decisions for your child, and high school is an important one as it is a pivotal period in their life. Do you want something more in high school? If the answer is yes, then you don't need to look too far up the river.

Maur Hill - Mount Academy (MHMA) is a place where teenagers across the U.S., as well as from countries around the world and our small town of Atchison, come together to learn, study and prepare themselves for the academic rigor of college. Second, they will grow in their faith and become the man/woman God has called them to be. Third, they will excel in a variety of extracurriculars, many times by trying something new. Finally, they will live in a community of strangers who will become their best friends for life.

If any of this sounds intriguing, then take a trip up the river. MHMA is that special place you've been looking for. Let us introduce you to our students, show you what a boarding experience is really like, meet our extraordinary faculty, and see how we can change your child's life.

Missouri Right to Life
Kansans for Life

Kansans for Life and Missouri Right to Life-WR partner together to bring pro-life information and events to the Kansas City Region. Our mission is to educate the public and our legislators on the basic right to life of all human beings from the moment of conception until natural death. To further this mission, we have educational booths at every opportunity and are delighted to participate at the Midwest Christian Education Expo.

Both Missouri Right to Life and Kansans for Life host fundraising events. The Missouri Right to Life Golf Tournament will be held on September 16. The KFL Valentine Banquet in February is another opportunity to support the organization while being dined, informed and inspired. MRL will be holding their annual carnation sale to churches and organizations for Mother's Day on May 8. A MRL ladies' event will be held in the Spring. All proceeds from events benefit our office operations and booth fees and educational materials.

We always need volunteers to help at various events. Keep informed by visiting our websites: www.kfl.org or call 913.642.5433 / www.mrlwesternregion.org or call 816.353.4113.

What can you do? Pray. Spread the truth. Support the work!
